Introduction

As a teacher, researcher, and apologist, it is my responsibility to address all manner of subjects and issues which are presented or inquired of me, from the Holy Scriptures, providing answers for the people of God. Many of these issues regard the essentials of faith, and how we, as a contemporary but yet still-emerging and developing Messianic movement, should approach them. My writings to date bear witness to the fact that I have had to address a whole host of topics, many of them relating to the challenges and controversies which our broad Messianic community is facing today. A variety of these issues are those upon which we all express a great deal of camaraderie and unity, as they concern the nature of Yeshua and His salvation. Some issues, however, are those which tend to get groups of people significantly divided and/or upset at one another, and which tend to make us rather uncomfortable. In far too many cases, issues which do get people divided or upset are not often approached with a great deal of objectivity, reason, innovation, or patience. And the love of the Messiah, which we are to demonstrate one to another, can often just be thrown out the proverbial window...ⁱ

There are three broad groups, which for better or worse, tend to make up the contemporary Messianic movement: Messianic Judaism, the One Law/One Torah sub-movement, and the Two-House sub-movement. Messianic Judaism as a modern movement, emerged in the late 1960s from the older Hebrew Christian movement, as a group of Jewish Believers wanting to acknowledge and worship Yeshua as the Messiah, in a widely Jewish cultural and religious context. As Messianic Judaism grew in the 1980s and 1990s, congregations and fellowships were established all throughout places such as North America, Europe, Israel, and the West in general. While many Jewish people rejoicingly came to a saving knowledge of Yeshua as the Messiah of Israel, a major unforeseen side-effect also took place: scores of non-Jewish Believers, evangelical Christians, entered into Messianic Judaism, and sincerely desired to not only learn more about the Jewish Jesus, but also live more like Him, embracing their Hebraic Roots in obedience to the Torah or Law of Moses.

As non-Jewish Believers have begun to utterly swell the Messianic community—indeed becoming the majority of it—many questions and answers to such questions have been proposed. For many of today’s Messianic Jewish leaders, non-Jewish Believers entering into the Messianic movement is only the result of the Lord calling specific persons and families to assist in Jewish ministry and the redemption of their people, and for them to be in a unique, close communion with Jewish Believers. Others have thought that non-Jewish Believers entering into the Messianic community, embracing a life of submission and obedience to God's Torah, is a result of prophecies like Micah 4:1-3 or Isaiah 2:2-4 or Zechariah 8:23 taking place, and a more decisive understanding of the New Covenant being realized (Jeremiah 31:31-34; Ezekiel 36:25-27; Hebrews 8:8-12; 10:15-17). Such non-Jewish Believers may be likened unto the ger (גֵר) or sojourner in the Torah who entered into the community of Ancient Israel, who was widely anticipated to follow the Torah, in many ways not too different from the native Israelite. The One Law/One Torah sub-movement, is quite prone to emphasize, "You shall have one law for him who does anything unintentionally, for him who is native among the sons of Israel and for the alien who sojourns among them" (Numbers 15:29), and other passages. The One Law/One Torah sub-movement is riddled with a great deal of legalism and judgmentalism, though, and should be kept at a distance.ⁱⁱ

Obviously in the realm of contemporary theological discussion, proposing that today's Messiah followers need to be taking regular instruction from the Torah or Law of Moses—including the importance of things like the seventh-day Sabbath/Shabbat, the appointed times of Leviticus 23, or eating kosher—is most controversial. And, such convictions certainly require a great deal of analysis and reflection from various passages in the Apostolic Scriptures or New Testament, which may seem to say otherwise—including the general validity and relevance of the Torah for Messiah followers.ⁱⁱⁱ Yet in the scope of Messianic discussion, no proposals can be more provocative and divisive, at times, than those often made by people composing the Two-House sub-movement.

In the scope of the history of Ancient Israel, following the death of King Solomon, no one can deny the fact that Israel's realm split into the Northern Kingdom of Israel, also called Ephraim, and the Southern Kingdom of Judah. In the course of Biblical history, as recorded within the Books of Kings and Chronicles, a mass from the Northern Kingdom of Israel was corporately taken into exile by the Assyrian Empire. Later in the course of Biblical history, the bulk of the Southern Kingdom of Judah was taken into exile by the Babylonian Empire, many of whom returned to the Holy Land following the conquering of the Babylonians by the much more tolerant and accepting Persian Empire. A huge mystery has ensued regarding the destiny of the descendants of the exiled Northern Kingdom of Israel—and their widescale non-return to the Holy Land—giving rise to all manner of interesting theories, speculations, and in far too many cases, outright myth and fantasy about the "Ten Lost Tribes."

A majority of people in today's Two-House sub-movement, while rightly raising the attention of Bible readers to the issue of the exiled Northern Kingdom in ⁱⁱ Other passages of note include: Exodus 12:48-49; Leviticus 7:7; 24:22; Numbers 9:14; 15:15-16, 29-30.

For a further discussion, consult the author's article "Approaching One Law Controversies: Sorting Through the Legalism" (appearing in the Messianic Torah Helper). Some important related discussions are also found in the author's publication Are Non-Jewish Believers Really a Part of Israel?

Scriptural history, have simply assumed that most of today's non-Jewish Believers are descendants of the exiled Northern Kingdom of Israel/Ephraim. This is likely due to the inappropriate thought that those who are physical descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob somehow must be closer to God and His will than people of the nations generally. And not only this, but these non-Jewish individuals tend to call themselves "Ephraimites," although they lack any documentation or substantial proof for it, other than some sort of unobjective feeling or instinct (and they will frequently eschew the option of a DNA ancestry test available for a minimal cost). Suffice it to say, this is a huge debate—and one where reason, careful attention to detail, and a Thomas-level of skepticism (cf. John 20:25-27)—have not often been allowed to prevail. Yet, those Messianic people who identify themselves as being "Two-House," do make up a large and most noticeable sub-movement of the larger Messianic community, with which the ministry of Outreach Israel and Messianic Apologetics does interact with also. If any of us intend to be fair as God's people, the main Biblical passages which they consider to be of importance must be analyzed, and in such a way which does appropriate justice to the text, removed from any of the bad behavior, problems, or semi-racism which may be endemic of various Two-House adherents.

Outreach Israel and Messianic Apologetics should not at all be considered a "Two-House" ministry, given the wide and diverse array of Biblical and theological topics we address, germane to the broad Messianic community. Our ministry serves people in Messianic Judaism, as well as in the One Law/One Torah sub-movement and in the Two-House sub-movement—as we consider and analyze a wide series of issues and subjects which are thought to be of importance to people in all of those different sub-communities. If our ministry choice is to at all be honored by others in the Messianic world of ideas, we would consider ourselves an egalitarian Messianic ministry, sitting above these three different Messianic groupings. We are a ministry which regards both Jewish and non-Jewish Believers in Messiah Yeshua to be a part of the Commonwealth of Israel (Ephesians 2:11-13, 19; 3:6), and which advocates a mutual submission ideology (Ephesians 5:21; Philippians 2:3-4). We fully affirm that all Messianic Believers, Jewish and non-Jewish, male and female—are complete equals in the eyes of the Lord (Galatians 3:28; Colossians 2:11)—and should be encouraged to develop all of their gifts, talents, and skills as is proper in Him. We also believe that the Messianic movement's shared spiritual and theological heritage in the Jewish Synagogue and Christian Church, must be steadfastly honored.

As it concerns the specific issue of the Two-House teaching, Outreach Israel Ministries and Messianic Apologetics disavow the popular/populist variety of the Two-House teaching which has been promulgated since the 1990s, via a number of pseudo-denominations, sensationalistic groups, and dominant and/or presumed-prophetic personalities—which has not allowed itself to be often subject to constructive criticism and/or further theological refinement and engagement with conservative Biblical scholarship. Yet, in 2008, at least, one Messianic Jewish ministry actually allowed the following statement to be featured on its website:

Israel in Future Prophecy

“The Two-House doctrine, in its most basic terms, simply maintains that the nation of Israel was divided following the reign of Solomon and will be reunited during the end times.”^{iv} This would be the basic or generic approach taken by our ministry to the issue of what happened to the exiled Northern Kingdom of Israel/Ephraim, in concert with the sentiments of pre-millennial eschaology.^v We would affirm a larger restoration of Israel, involving those from the exiled Northern Kingdom as a participant, yet to occur in Biblical prophecy.

We would acknowledge a greater, end-time restoration of Israel to come that is prophesied, going beyond the rebirth of the State of Israel in 1948, as important as this has surely been. Such a larger restoration of Israel definitely involves the Jewish people, as well as descendants from the exiled Northern Kingdom, but also many welcome and valued scores of companions from the nations themselves. There are pockets of people in remote corners of places like Southeast Asia, Southern Asia, the Middle East, the Eastern Mediterranean basin, and the environs of Central Africa, who claim to be descendants of the exiled Northern Kingdom via some kind of oral tradition, and/or what can appear to be Jewish-style customs—and most probably are. (Sometimes this has been enjoined with some credible DNA analysis, confirming distant Semitic descent.) These are the areas which generally fall within the sphere of influence of the old Assyrian, Babylonian, and Persian Empires, and where the exiles of the Northern Kingdom could have been legitimately deported, scattered, and/or assimilated (cf. Jeremiah 31:10; Hosea 8:8-9; Amos 9:8-9).^{vi}

We believe that the Lord will bring together, as one people in Him: the Jewish people, such aforementioned descendants of exiled Israel/Ephraim, and their many associated companions from all nations as one broad and inclusive community of people in Messiah Yeshua, before His return, in fulfillment of end-time prophecy (i.e., Isaiah 11:12-16; Jeremiah 31:6-10; Ezekiel 37:15-28; Zechariah 10:6-10). We do not at all encourage non-Jewish Believers (particularly those of Western European ancestry) who are a part of today’s Messianic movement, and who recognize themselves as a part of the Commonwealth of Israel (Ephesians 2:11-13; 3:6) or the Israel of God (Galatians 6:16), grafted into Israel by faith in Israel’s Messiah (Romans 11:17-18), to identify themselves as some sort of “Ephraimites.” We especially do not encourage such non-Jewish people to make any kind of permanent pilgrimage or “aliyah” to the Holy Land, as there is no indication that all Messiah followers will, in total, ever live in the Land of Israel, even in the Messiah’s Millennial Kingdom (cf. Isaiah 19:23-24; Zechariah 14:16-19).

An eschatology-based approach toward addressing this subject, with obviously various details needing to be left to an Eternal and Sovereign God, is frequently not the approach which one encounters in much of the well-known literature surrounding the subject matter. It can be said that there is a distinct difference between a populist Two-House teaching, which essentially advocates that the majority of non-Jewish Believers are distant descendants of the exiled Northern Kingdom (with various connections to be likely made with Nineteenth Century British-Israelism), versus a more Biblical approach to the issue that focuses on the specific prophecies of a larger restoration of Israel. While we would affirm a wide number of Tanach prophecies involving the exiled Northern Kingdom as a participant, as being unfulfilled at the present time, our ministry would not at all be considered a part of a Two-House sub-movement which practices a great deal of theological eisegesis, where many Biblical references to “two” are applied to Judah and Ephraim, and whose Hebrew and Greek examination is often limited to Strong’s Concordance (among other things).

When this subject matter has been raised, we have definitely strived as a ministry—as best as we humanly can—to focus the attention of today’s Messianic people on a larger scope of expectations regarding the restoration of Israel, with the exiled Northern Kingdom of Israel/Ephraim as a noticeable participant. How does this affect our view of the end-times, and what is to transpire regarding the restoration of Israel before the Messiah’s return? Unlike the populist Two-House teaching that has garnered the most attention since the late 1990s, our ministry has made it clear that non-Jewish Messianic Believers thinking that they are mostly descendants of the exiled Northern Kingdom, is not at all a useful or profitable endeavor. Jeremiah 31:10 certainly directs Bible readers, “He who scattered Israel will gather him.” Many of the finer details of such a larger restoration of Israel to be anticipated are only known by our Eternal and Omnipresent Creator. And, not at all to be ignored, is the steadfast Torah word of Deuteronomy 28:62, “Then you shall be left few in number, whereas you were as numerous as the stars of heaven, because you did not obey the LORD your God.” Much of the popular/populist Two-House literature has actually posited that the physical numbers of descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob are in the hundreds of millions, if not billions, whereas the tenor of the Pentateuch itself does not at all convey this. Not only does this seem like a significant over-exaggeration, it makes the known Jewish population seem absolutely miniscule—especially in light of the 6 million Jews who were slaughtered in the Holocaust!

Perhaps most overlooked (and dismissed) in the whole discussion (and debate), is that there will be many associated companions/associates from the nations themselves involved in the restoration process (Ezekiel 37:16-19; Isaiah 49:6; cf. Luke 2:32; Acts 13:47), most definitely being the significant majority of those who participate, in what is mainly not the reunion of the Two Houses of Israel as has been popularly communicated—but in actuality, instead, what is a larger restoration/expansion of Israel’s Kingdom. Such a restoration would involve a resolution to the issue of the exiled Northern Kingdom for sure, but would also incorporate the righteous from the nations, into an expanded realm of Israel's Kingdom (cf. Amos 9:11-12; Acts 15:15-18). Most of the non-Jewish Believers one is likely to encounter, forcibly identifying themselves as some sort of "Ephraimites," are not, and they have no Semitic genealogy of any kind. Yet, these people have been Divinely led by the Lord into the Messianic movement, certainly in fulfillment of prophecies like Micah 4:1-3 and Isaiah 2:2-3 and Zechariah 8:23, and should be considered welcome and valued members of the community of Israel. They are most certainly the equals of Jewish Believers in Messiah Yeshua (cf. Galatians 3:28).^{vii} They are, without question, human beings made in God's image (Genesis 1:27), who are valued and loved by Him as the Eternal Creator!

Our ministry has a consistent track record of speaking out against many of the anti-Christian and anti-Jewish sentiments, which are often witnessed in the Two-House sub-movement and much of its popular literature.^{viii} If there is genuinely a larger restoration of Israel to occur, which effectively involves all who acknowledge the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob—via the emergence of the modern Messianic movement—then today's Messianic people must certainly show proper respect and honor to their Jewish and Christian forbearers, employing their great virtues to accomplish His mission and purpose for the final hour.

Today's Messianic community needs some preliminary resolution to the whole "Two-House" controversy, one which is not dismissive as it concerns unfulfilled prophetic words from the Tanach involving the descendants of the exiled Northern Kingdom of Israel (Isaiah 11:12-16; Jeremiah 31:6-10; Ezekiel 37:15-28; Zechariah 10:6-10), but one which is far more engaged with the Biblical text and contemporary scholarship than the populism which tends to utterly plague the Two-House sub-movement,^{ix} and much of the religious posturing and/or total dismissal which can be seen against it.^x Israel in Future Prophecy: Is There a Larger

Restoration of the Kingdom to Israel? can hopefully provide some of the answers which are needed in the current season of Messianic development, and we would hope, Lord willing, also maturation. If any of you can understand what it means for a “third solution” to be offered to a theological controversy—then this is a publication which I believe is going to help you greatly!
